

Alt-N Technologies and MailStore Software Enter into a Partnership

Viersen — Germany, November 23, 2012 +++ MailStore Software GmbH, a leading provider of email archiving solutions, announces the formation of a technology and marketing partnership with Texas-based Alt-N Technologies, Ltd. Alt-N Technologies has been a leading provider of Microsoft Exchange and SBS-alternative email software to SMB customers since 1998. The company's core product, MDAemon Messaging Server, is available in over 90 countries and in 25 languages.

MailStore Server offers MDAemon Messaging Server seamless integration that meets the highest standards in terms of performance, stability, and functionality. Archiving can be set up in just a few minutes, regardless of whether it is to be carried out for existing emails or for all incoming and outgoing emails.

Heinz B. Wietfeld, Director of Global Sales at MailStore Software, is pleased that the longstanding technical integration of both solutions has established the basis for an official technology and marketing partnership. "This partnership is the next logical step for both companies. A number of end customers are already using MDAemon Messaging Server with MailStore Server. Distributors and resellers who have relied on the proven combination of both solutions for many years are also delighted."

Kevin A. Beatty, VP, Marketing and Business Development at Alt-N Technologies, believes that the similarities in customer philosophy between both companies will be highly beneficial to SMB customers. "Many customers don't have the time to test compatibility and would like their vendors to be proactive towards helping them in their decision making process. This new partnership is an example of how email server and email archiving platform vendors have come together to deliver an effective and affordable solution for the markets they serve."

Alt-N Technologies will have product available on its website (www.altn.com) for direct customers and resellers in early December of this year.
